Show love for local wildlife

Support Greenwood Wildlife Rehabilitation Center this Colorado Gives Day on Tuesday, December 10th! You can schedule your donation NOW! It's the day that unites all Coloradans in giving to their favorite charities online with the common goal to strengthen the state's nonprofits.

Did you know that we have treated over 200 different species of wildlife? Your donations help provide compassionate care for thousands of orphaned, injured, and sick animals annually. With the money raised on Colorado Gives Day, we can buy nutritious and species-specific food to help our patients thrive, and specialty medicine and supplies so that every animal gets the care that it needs.

Give where you live! Thanks to the $1 Million Incentive Fund from Community First Foundation and FirstBank, your donation goes further on Tuesday, December 10th.

Make sure to select the option for "CO Gives Day".

Hear the Happy Call of a Common Loon Returning to the Wild!

Wildlife Stories

The story of the Common Loon from the video...

This large bird was struggling to cross a rural road between Fort Collins and Loveland when a caring rescuer found it. The rescuer's neighbor is a biologist, so he made a call to him in hopes of getting help. The neighbor was eager to get involved and offered to get the bird into expert care.

The animal had no obvious signs of injury, but the bottom of its wings and tail feathers looked scuffed. The neighbor and his wife put out a post on social media asking for help, and someone mentioned Greenwood as a resource.

When the bird arrived, our staff confirmed that the biologist was correct, it was indeed a Common Loon. It spent five days in our care while we test swam it to ensure the

This beautiful Blue Grouse is the only grouse Greenwood has treated this year! She was found in the middle of the road in Golden.

When her rescuers approached, she did not try to fly or run, unusual behavior for a wild bird. The two women also noticed her left eyelid was drooping and brought her to Greenwood.

During the initial examination, no broken bones were detected. The grouse was given pain medication daily for over a week. Sometimes we never know what is wrong with an animal but a little bit of TLC, medication, and cage rest can make all the difference. While in our care, she chowed down on lots of turkey starter, seeds, and meal worms.

feathers were properly water-proofed. Once our rehabbers were certain that the loon would be able to swim and fly without a problem, it was released onto a large body of water where it could flourish.

When she was released, she flew quickly away, never looking back.
